

ABOUT THIS — AND —
ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

LITTLE THINGS.—Little things often pass unnoticed. At least, they pass unnoticed at the moment. Like a tiny, unseeable disease germ. If the thing only would remain little and insignificant, we could be happier. But they do not. They like to boil, multiply, and become nuisances, and are unhappy until they develop to a point that a thermometer in the mouth wonders if it is in hades.

BETTER.—Of course, all little things are not bad. Even the germs are not all bad—that is, if they are controlled and put to good use in the technician's laboratory. Just as many things said and done by you and me are not bad, if put to good use in the proper environment and for the proper purpose. If not controlled, the same words and acts may start a chain of circumstances damning the lives of others through several generations and leaving irreparable harm done to our fellow beings.

MORE ATTENTION.—The "big" things, of course, get more attention—they can be more readily seen, and as readily forgotten. Of course, if it is a big house falling down upon us, we don't forget it—we move quickly, and have a subject for conversation some time to come. But the really "big" things get considerable space in newspapers and magazines—and, sometimes, in books. We catch the headlines at a glance, repeat them for conversation—but, of course, never go back to the "little things" out of which the "big" thing or headline was created.

TRY IT.—As a simple experiment, to prove that little things are at the bottom of all big things, try making cement without little things—just try it. I would like to have you write and tell me about your experiment. Imagine cement blocks made of granules measuring say 24 inches in diameter. As I say, try it and report to me, please, the results. In the ordinary pursuit of life we ignore little things and do foolish things equal to trying to make cement blocks without tiny granules.

ORIGIN.—Much of our poverty, misery, lawlessness, filth, corruption arise from absence of attention to little things and only perfunctory, conversational attention to the big things that grow from little things. Often poverty grows from inattention to such little things as saving something from earnings, and from too much attention to "good times" and no attention to learning some simple economic facts about living. Misery, of course, is the result. Where learning and health abide, there misery and lawlessness find no refuge.

PROGRESS.—Much, all, of our modern progress in living and doing hitched up from small things, small ideas. But progress did not come BECAUSE the ideas were little things. Nature has "sorta" regulated that. A mustard seed is a tiny thing. And it will grow. But it must have attention. If, just because it is only a little thing, it should be neglected after planting, without proper fertilizing and cultivation, pray, tell me, where would be the future of our mustard crops? Mustard is cared for from planting on. Too bad children aren't worth as much as a mustard seed.

BABIED.—Take the telegraph. It's a good illustration. It was small, insignificant. It could not develop by itself. Suppose Benjamin Franklin, immediately after cupping, or botching, electricity, had gone away to a place of amusement and had done nothing more than use his experiment as a source for social conversation, light banter. Maybe we would still be using Indian signal fires for communication if the "little" experiment made by Franklin had been lost in idle banter in social relaxation. Happily for us, the little thing was babied, it was the subject of long hours of tedious study, it was a back-breaker for long effort until the little experiment became a giant of our day, a life-saver, a thing to keep people young by unloading them of life-taking burdens.

BREAK ON.—As a people we have put a break on ourselves, an anchor, to avoid sailing too high too quickly; although it seems to me that we are in no danger of ascending too fast. Without question, we could make faster scientific progress if as a people we would give more attention to the little things of our daily lives, painstakingly seeking through applied effort to develop the last possible value from even the most minute thought and thing.

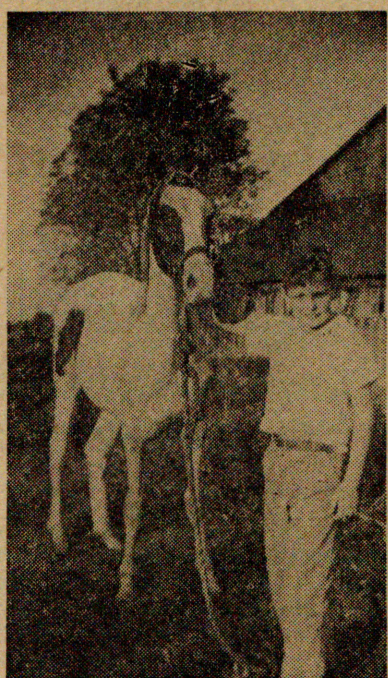

NOT BRIGHT.—Of course, in such a way of living there is no garish brightness, no gaudy colors under lights that die and become sordid looking when shined upon by the morning sun. In such a way of life there is no transplanted African tom-tom booming away into the wee small hours while sotted minds mumble foolish things. But there is high achievement, and we would have poor going if Franklin, Edison, and myriads of others had not traded the emptiness of life for the fullness of life through attention to little things.

Arnold-Ball

Miss Dorothy Arnold of Lincoln Estates became the bride of Arnold Ball, also of Lincoln Estates, at a ceremony Saturday afternoon, 2 o'clock, in the home of the Rev. Olaf Nelson, with the bride's father and mother attending.

The bride wore a gray suit with black accessories, and her corsage was of red and white roses.

Maid of honor was Miss Mary Elphick, friend of the bride, in a black and white suit with black accessories and with a corsage like that of the bride.

Best man was Samuel Jeffries, Jr., cousin of the bride, now living in Plattville.

The bridal party went to Chicago Heights after the ceremony where the bride's parents entertained at a wedding dinner for the party. Following their return to the bride's home, Mr. and Mrs. Ball left for Lookout mountain, Chattanooga, Tenn., for a week's stay.

Vandals Enter
Hansen School

Vandals entered Hansen school, district 148, Green Garden, and upset the room, leaving with the school radio, probably Saturday afternoon, it was reported Monday.

The entry and theft were not discovered until Monday noon. Burnt matches around the room indicated that the intruders were in no great haste.

Following the discovery of the break-in and theft, it was reported that persons were seen leaving the school building Saturday afternoon, but identities were not known.

DOCTOR SCHOOL REOPENS WITH TEMPORARY TEACHER—CLOSED ONE WEEK

Miss Nellie Ridley, 5610 Maryland avenue, Chicago, has been appointed temporary teacher in the Doctor school, Wolf road and 159th street, Orland township, and the school has reopened.

The school was closed last week when Mrs. Wave Elder, 8701 Oak Lawn failed to qualify for a certificate, although it was said that her work was excellent and her forced resignation was regretted. Mrs. Elder, it was said, needs five additional points to qualify for a certificate.

Miss Ridley is a graduate of Maryville, N. D., teachers' college and her experience has covered 10 years. She has been teaching part time in Burnham school, Chicago.

A committee of four mothers met Miss Ridley at the school Tuesday morning, along with 28 of the 32 pupils. The committee of mothers seemed satisfied with Miss Ridley after their visit, it was said, terming the new teacher as "very friendly."

Employment of Miss Ridley on a temporary basis was decided upon in fairness to Mrs. Elder, who will reclaim her teaching position if she secures an emergency certificate. Amil Doctor, school district president, said Tuesday after Miss Ridley met with the board.

It was agreed Miss Ridley will finish the month and continue if Mrs. Elder has not secured her certificate.

Frankfort Gridders
Top Mokena, 19-13

The Frankfort football team won its second game of the season last Sunday when it defeated Mokena, 19 to 13, on Robinson's field in Mokena.

The winners jumped into a 6-0 lead early in the first quarter, when Quarterback Johnny Fedak scored on a 15-yard run around right end. A pass for the extra point was incomplete. In the second quarter Halfback Jimmy Lind tossed a pass to Ronnie Warning for another touchdown, but the try for the extra point failed and the half ended with Frankfort leading 12-0.

Early in the third quarter, Halfback Kenny Waldvogel intercepted a forward pass and raced down the sidelines 60 yards for Frankfort's third touchdown. This time the extra point was made on a pass from Lind to Ron Warning.

Mokena also scored in the third period when Fritz Guendling grabbed a forward pass on the goal-line and stepped over for the touchdown. Frank Sizer then caught a forward pass for the extra point.

In the last quarter, Sizer scooped up a fumble and dashed 45 yards for the other Mokena score. A pass for the point was incomplete. Lineup:

Frankfort Man
Is Welding Teacher

Wallace Weichbrodt of Frankfort is instructing in welding at Joliet township high school night class. The season started Monday night of last week, with classes for stenographers, typing, and other office and shop work.

The welding class is not closed, it was said, and there is room for additional students.

Mr. Weichbrodt is foreman of the implement department, New Lenox Lumber Co.

PEAR TREE BLOSSOMS AS FRUIT
IS READY TO PICK; A RARITY

Matured pears and new blossoms on the same tree are a rarity, according to horticulturists, but that rarity appeared on a tree in the yard of a Frankfort family recently.

The petals remained on the tree for several days, but most were lost in a week-end heavy wind.

The tree is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Eisenbrandt, Frankfort, and petals from the tree gathered by Mrs. Eisenbrandt before the storm remained alive in the house nearly a week, she said.

The tree is a Lincoln, Mrs. Eisenbrandt said, and was planted five years ago.

Authorities consulted stated that the rare phenomenon is the result of excessive sap remaining in the tree as fruit ripens, late warm earth and air retarding the chilling of sap and its drainage to roots. The excessive sap, they state, finds its outlet in buds, then petals, unless Jack Frost makes an invasion.

And Jack stayed away long enough for the Eisenbrandts' Lincoln pear tree to perform a rarity.

ST. PETER'S PLANS FULL DAY
FOR ITS 80TH ANNIVERSARY

A person may be old at 80, but a church need not be, seems to be the slogan of Frankfort's St. Peter's Evangelical and Reformed church, which will celebrate its 80th anniversary next Sunday, the 19th, according to an announcement this week by the Rev. Eric G. Bizer, pastor.

Beginning with the morning service, when the Rev. G. Gerhold of Champaign, a former pastor, will preach, the day will be devoted to the celebration.

A potluck dinner at noon will be a forerunner of fellowship and visiting with the former pastor and his family in the afternoon.

The Rev. Robert Klepper of Prospect Heights, a son of St. Peter's congregation, will preach at the evening service, following which there will be an open gathering in the church parlors.

The church choir, under the leadership of Arthur Lambrecht, will provide music, and the children's choir will also sing in the evening service. Mrs. Robert Klepper of Prospect Heights will be soloist in the evening, and Mrs. Fred Klepper and Mrs. E. Bizer will be at the organ.

St. Peter's congregation has been preparing for this event for many months, with new steps built, and a room under the steps, a new landscape in the front, kitchen remodeled, and other improvements made. Many of the five hundred members of the church turned a laboring hand to help prepare for Sunday's 80th anniversary celebration.

Officials stated that while local drivers at times are careless, the greatest hazard arises from through traffic on Lincoln highway, and that automobile carriers are the worst offenders.

State regulations prohibit the establishment by the village of stop lights, it was stated, and village authorities have set up safety week as a means of trying to get dangerous driving under control.

temporary basis was decided upon in fairness to Mrs. Elder, who will reclaim her teaching position if she secures an emergency certificate. Amil Doctor, school district president, said Tuesday after Miss Ridley met with the board.

It was agreed Miss Ridley will finish the month and continue if Mrs. Elder has not secured her certificate.

JUNIOR HIGH NEWS

Our room is working on filling a Red Cross box for overseas. We have about completed our first box and will soon begin on our second box.

We were so glad to have David Gode return to school Tuesday after his illness. We are also glad to know that Marilyn Yunker is doing nicely after her operation and will be able to return to school soon.

The Junior High room enjoyed listening to the final game of the world series last week. Also we enjoyed listening to "School Time" on which we heard the music and the life of Edward McDowell.

The eighth grade literary club has had a meeting and it was decided to give a Halloween party. It will be held in Russell Guether's home, Friday, October 31.

The boys in their physical education hour have had a very exciting time playing football.

We have now attained 100 per cent enrollment in the Junior Red Cross. Our school nurse, Mrs. Emmett, visited our school Tuesday, October 14.

GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

Two children in the primary room have October birthdays. Jean Florey was seven years old October 3 and Lee Yunker was six years old October 10.

We have several southpaws in our room: Linda Sue Powers, Billy Westman, Robert Yunker, and Robert Teske are all left-handed.

Linda Lou Mizysak moved away October 9. Linda was a second-grader and we all miss her. Good luck in your new school, Linda!

All of the second-grade girls have joined the Brownies. The girls enjoy their meetings and are looking forward to their handicraft work.

We have a new second-grader. Her name is Penelope Spisak; we call her "Penny." Penny came from Chicago. Welcome to Mokena, Penny; we hope you'll like our school and stay here for a long time.

5th AND 6th GRADES

We are all happy over Billy Weber's good fortune in winning the recent contest sponsored by Mr. Dowd. Billy's letter telling how he would care for one of the horses to be given away was chosen as one of 20 winners. Mr. Dowd received over 17,000 letters, so we are proud that Billy's was considered as one of the best. Billy now has Spot in his possession and is spending his spare time getting acquainted with him. Congratulations, Billy!

We organized our music club last week. The officers elected are as follows: President, Patricia Perley; secretary, Marcia Gaddis; directors, Billy Weber, Charlotte Gilmore.

Patricia Reed has been ill and we are glad to hear that she is improving and hope she will soon be back in school.

Our new health charts are a good reminder to us to brush our teeth, comb our hair, and to keep our faces and hands clean. Each one of us is trying to earn one of the attractive certificates by keeping all the health rules.

Mokena Division
Chest Chairmen

Elmer Cooper and Mrs. Albert Cappel are co-chairmen for Mokena township in the Community Chest campaign now underway throughout the county. Several campaign divisions will be formed, each with a leader in charge.

Mr. Cooper and Mrs. Cappel pledged the support of their organization in assisting the 16 agencies of the Community Chest to raise funds for their necessary operating costs for the coming year.

Herman C. Grassle, county auditor, is chairman of the county division pushing toward a goal of $131,700.00.

Royal Neighbors

Meet in Joliet

Royal Neighbors of this section will descend upon Joliet next Tuesday, October 21, at the organization's convention, to be held in I. O. O. F. hall, starting at 1:30 in the afternoon. The evening session gets underway at 7:30.

Royal Neighbors, it was announced, will have to reserve lunch places for Tuesday's luncheon; the luncheon chairman is Mrs. Bertha Nieland, Frankfort.

Company Official
Says Community Is Ideal Plant Spot

The Andrew Company of Chicago will locate in Orland. Completing many months of negotiations and investigations the company a few days ago completed the details of purchasing 194 acres of land belonging to the Andrew J. Tilley and located west of the Wabash railroad.

The announcement of the completion of transactions was made by Orland Park Village President W. R. Schussler, who last winter initiated the movement which brought representatives of the Andrew Co., to investigate Orland Park as a possible site for its expanding business.

The purchased property is a triangle of land comprising the north end of the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Tilley.

Of the total property bought by the Andrew Co., a 33-acre area lies within the village of Orland Park, the other area in Orland township.

Negotiations have been in progress since early this year, when Mayor Schussler met officials of the Andrew Co., the first of many conferences with the mayor and with individuals, finally culminating in one of the largest meetings of a strictly local character ever held in Orland, with representative business and professional men and citizens meeting the Andrew officials in the Orland high school auditorium to look them over, hear their views, and in turn present views of the local people.

At that time W. J. Mather of the Andrew Co., representing Mr. Andrew along with several associates, told the Orland people that the company sought a place in an attractive countryside where plans of the company for artistic building development would fit in with the landscape and the tastes of the people. They found exactly that in Orland, according to a statement by Mr. Mather to The Semmler Newspapers this week.

Mr. Mather expressed the feeling for the company, he said, in saying that the long-drawn-out negotiations were pleasant, and the company particularly appreciated the courtesies received from Mr. and Mrs. Tilley in negotiating for their property, for their generous attitude, and to Mayor Schussler for his energetic efforts to bring company and sellers into harmonious relations.

Building operations are uncertain, it was stated. Although the company has definite plans, as indicated by its purchase of the property, uncertainties of materials and labor for building will have large influence upon building starting date.

The company has several plants in Chicago, and these, the gathering earlier this year was told, eventually are to be consolidated in the Orland operation. The company manufactures commercial broadcasting equipment, is operating at capacity, and it is considered probable that eventually hundreds of employees will be working in the Orland plants. "And," Mr. Mather told the meeting early this year, "we hope Orland can supply all but the most highly skilled, which must come from the open market."

In the interview this week, it was stated that some building operations probably will begin next year, although this is indefinite, the transition from established operation to a new location being a slow process, it was stated.

Mayor Schussler expressed his appreciation and the appreciation of Orland people who participated in negotiations and in assisting in impressing Andrew Co. officials that Orland is a good place for the company.

CARRYING WAR DEAD HOME . . . United States army transport Joseph V. Connolly, tied up at pier in Antwerp, Belgium, is shown loading some of the 5,600 caskets making up the first shipment of U. S. World War II dead to this country. These bodies had been buried in Henri Chapelle cemetery and were brought from Liege to Antwerp on barges operating in the Albert canal. For the major departure ceremony, the Connolly was decked with flowers by members of the Belgo-American association.

MANHATTAN DOCKS ABLAZE . . . In this spectacular air view of Manhattan's worst dock fire in 16 years, smoke can be seen pouring from pier 57 to enshroud the skyscrapers of lower Manhattan. The fire, for the most part underneath the pier, was brought under control with a loss of at least five million dollars. Fifty firemen were injured fighting the flames. There were no vessels tied up at the pier when the flames broke out.

PINT-SIZED ATLAS . . . Mighty atom of the weight-lifting world is Joe Depietro of Paterson, N. J., bantam-weight on the American team of grunt and heave boys who took part in the international world's weight-lifting championships at Philadelphia. Joe, who stands 4 feet, 8 inches tall, boosted over his head a mass of metal weighing 225 pounds to set a new record for his class in the two-hand military press. Joe weighs only 122 1/2 pounds himself but practically all of it is muscle, which makes him quite a little man.

Walleye or Pike Perch
The walleye is a slender fish moderately compressed. Generally the color is brassy yellow and gold shading to olive and yellow mottled with brass. The belly and sides are white tinged with green; head is slender and tapered; lower jaw slightly shorter than the upper. It has two separate distinct dorsal fins and the mouth is well supplied with strong teeth. The flesh is white, firm and delicately flavored.

Wild Figs for Pigeons
The nutmeg pigeons, also known as the white pigeons in Australia, feed on wild figs. Vast flocks wing across Torres strait, between New Guinea and Australia to the Queensland coast to breed. Like most pigeons, they are lazy nest builders, a few twigs supporting a single large white egg. They are good eating and lugger crews, after pearl shell and trochus, hunting them down at night on the reef islands.

When Your Back Hurts -

And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood. You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

ADVENTURE LIMITED

By IDA BREED

CAROLYN TAYLOR looked at herself critically in the full length mirror, then gave her reflection a smiling little nod of approval. The smile was justified. Her mirrored image showed a lovely young woman of thirty-two, who looked hardly more than twenty-five—vivid, well dressed, confident. She was more charming, more desirable than the pretty young Carolyn of eleven years before when she finished college.

That was the Carolyn who, all her senior year at college, had to keep reminding herself that this was earth she lived on, and not really heaven, as it seemed, because of Lee, Lee, who was tall and lean, with intent blue eyes, and delightfully unruly hair. Lee, who loved her and treasured the secret of their engagement. Lee, who was so sweet about wanting to present her to the family as a beautiful surprise after Commencement. Not even his adored older brother had been let in on the secret.

Then, with Commencement still three weeks away, it happened. Just after Lee passed the final examinations for his doctor's degree, he was offered an extraordinary chance to do the very research work that he most wanted—a unique chance for "an unmarried man, prepared to devote at least five years to the project."

Carolyn remembered how honorable Lee had been in breaking the news to her. He might have let their engagement continue, he told her; he might have kept on seeing her, deceiving her about their prospects for marriage, putting it off, or promising to marry her at the end of the five years. But he did not consider that the right thing to do. No, it was only the part of a gentleman to tell her that it was best to break off. She was not to feel hurt, there was no other girl, just his career. He put anguish into Carolyn's heart, but managed somehow to impress her with the difficulty of his own part in the scene. Even in the pain and shock of losing him, Carolyn told herself that Lee was the finest person she had ever known.

That belief had never left her. Three years later she married Jefferson Taylor, a big, broad Westerner, done in shades of brown. She sometimes felt a slight disdain for Jeff's substantial size, remembering Lee's aristocratic slenderness, but she repressed the thought. Lots of fun, Jeff was, and with a practical mind for business that made them enough money to enjoy a pleasantly luxurious life. She loved Jeff, of course. But there was a part of herself that she withheld, one section of her heart and mind walled off, that would always belong to Lee.

She never spoke to Jeff of this reservation. Only in secret did Carolyn now and then open the door on that precious might-have-been part of her, and take it out to dream over.

But today, as she looked at her delightful self in the mirror, it was not to dream; it was with a plan for action. She was back in New York after an absence of two years. Nearly every Spring since her marriage, she had made the trip, and had always stopped off for a brief visit in her old college town. This time she was planning to follow the same course, but with what a difference! One of her old school friends had written her last year that Lee Towne had returned to their alma mater to direct the research work there. So Lee was back and Carolyn that she could have stopped him with a word, but she did not speak it. This was the Lee whom she had treasured in her heart for eleven years! Lee, still tall, but with shoulders stooped; still lean, but with a hollow-chested look. Lee, his blue eyes intent now only with a near-sighted, peering expression; his hair no longer unruly, because there was not enough of it to be, just some wisps "borrowed" from one side to cover a pale bald spot. And it was obvious that for all he saw of the life humming around him, he might have had his eye bent to a microscope as he walked.

Carolyn had to keep reminding herself that it was earth she lived on, not really heaven.

was going to see him. Accidentally, of course. She had it all planned.

There would be a casual drifting about the campus in her flattering new Spring suit, lingering over a table in Crofton House, where everybody dropped in at tea time. Then when Lee appeared—Carolyn had this part rehearsed in her mind—she would give just the right look of pleased surprise, just the right degree of invitation to remember. Lee would see what he had missed all these years. What would happen after they met—that did she want to happen? That Carolyn did not quite know, and she stopped short of trying to decide. This was to be an adventure.

The adventure proceeded as if acted from a well prepared script. Carolyn chanced into Crofton House at tea time. Two men at a nearby table stared at her with obvious admiration; they were younger faculty members that she did not know.

Then, somehow, without the fanfare of trumpets that would have seemed fitting to her, there was Lee in the doorway. Without glancing around, he went to a table straight ahead. He passed so near to Carolyn Carolyn sat and stared, helpless to force her gaze away from this changed Lee. What of the distinguished gray at the temples, the impressive look of the scientist that she had pictured!

The men at the next table were noticing her concentrated gaze; she finally forced herself to look away. The next minute, with no more poise than a school girl, she jumped up and hurried away into the next wing of the building to the telegraph blanks.

"Leaving for home tonight instead of next week," she began to write. There was something reassuring about the thought of Jeff's bulk; she was glad that her husband was such a substantial person in every way. Such nice, thick hair, too, and straight shoulders. She had never been as sweet to him as he deserved, but she would make it up from now on. Why, he was the finest person that she had ever known!

Back at their table, the two curious young men continued to speculate after they had watched Carolyn rush from the room.

"Did you see her staring at Johnny Towne as if she were fascinated? If it had been Lee, now, you could understand it—he's a handsome devil."

WHAT AGE IS THE BEST AGE?

Personality knows no age limits, and a developed personality can go on with undimmed lustre as long as life endures. Indeed, the full fruition of a personality seldom comes much before middle-age or older, because it is a long time in building and each successive day adds a bit of charm.

Women famed for their beauty are seldom the very young. Quite often as not they have passed middle-age. Frequently they will be what the world calls old.

Consider Ninon L'Enclos, perhaps the most beautiful and charming woman of history. She was unheard of until she was fifty, yet at eighty she was still sought after by rich and fashionable gentlemen, who could have taken their pick of the court beauties. It wasn't her youth that gave L'Enclos charm. It was her ageless personality.

But perhaps the crowning achievement of personality in a woman is the career of Elizabeth Browning, wife of the English poet.

Elizabeth was an invalid from childhood, bed-ridden, but illness couldn't quench her spirit nor rob her of her beauty, and the long hours she spent in solitude had enabled her to develop something into her personality that made her irresistibly beautiful.

Then came young Robert Browning, six years her junior, to fall madly in love with her, and she with him. She was bed-ridden, mind you, but she arose from her sick bed and they eloped into the night and were married.

For sixteen years they passed a life of unbelievable happiness together. And when she died, at the age of 56, with her head on her husband's arm, he wrote the next day that her face was the face of a young girl.

Step by step through the quiet years personality develops. And it is never too late to start or to create one out of what you have, out of what you are. That is the fascinating thing.

Scent of Skunk May Cause Blindness or Even Death

The skunk's scent is quite poisonous. It chokes dogs and other animals, and the inhalation of a small dose of it weakens the heart action and slows up the pulse, while a large dose might cause unconsciousness. Skunk scent causes inflammation of the eyes and perhaps permanent blindness. There is even one case of a boy who was killed by skunk scent.

MAY

Issued by CHICAGO MOTOR CLUB

With May's mild weather summoning children to outdoor activities, this month's traffic safety poster distributed by the Chicago Motor Club to 44,000 classrooms in Illinois and northern Indiana features the safe pedestrian practice of walking on the left against oncoming traffic on the highway. The poster was drawn by a Detroit high school student, a winner in the second national poster contest for high school students portraying traffic lessons for elementary school children. Accompanying the poster are detailed lesson sheets explaining safe traffic habits for children and especially designed for the various elementary grades.

Mystery of the Missing Farms

Yep, the number of farms in America is shrinking (by a quarter-million in the last five years!). What's happened to the missing farms? The land has been taken in by other farms, increasing the average size by twenty acres!

Does this growth mean farming's no longer a family enterprise? Just the opposite! More families own farms today than ever—only with labor-saving equipment they can handle more land, more work.

That's as it should be. The family farm is a fortress of democracy—where our free, American life is secure. Where every member co-operates and shares the work... living together in temperance and tolerance—temperance that prefers a moderate beverage like beer, and tolerance for a taste that may be different from one's own.

From where I sit, our Family Farms (and they're 96% of all farms) are something that this country can be proud of!

IN MEMORIAM

SMITH, PETER. In loving memory of our husband and father, who passed away one year ago tomorrow, October 17.

Why did he go when life seemed fair,
And no dark clouds were near,
To dim the brightness of our lives
Or start the bitter tears?
We thought not at the close of day
When night veiled earth and sky
That one so full of life and hope
Would breathe the last good-bye.

MARLEY

By MRS. LOREN SASS

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank everyone for the many acts of kindness shown me at the time of my accident and also for the many cards and flowers.

MRS. C. F. HALEY.

Wednesday afternoon, October 8, the regular meeting of the Marley unit of the Home Bureau was held in the home of Mrs. William Morrison, with Mrs. Carl Wegner assisting. Eight members and two guests were present. Mrs. Charles Dale was welcomed as a new member. The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Mrs. Julian Gorham. A report on the annual meeting was given by each member who attended. The Marley unit was represented at the annual meeting by nine members and also received the honor of having one member, Mrs. William Morrison, elected to the county board, as recreation chairman. Mrs. Francis Nelson gave the health report on "typhoid fever." It was voted to begin the meetings at 1:30 instead of 2 o'clock during the winter months. Mrs. Francis Nelson read a communication from an Italian family, thanking the unit for the box of clothing and food sent them a year ago. Mrs. Carl Wegner gave the lesson of "The Family Learns to Live Democracy." The meeting adjourned at 3:30, after which the hostesses served refreshments. The next meeting will be held November 5 in the home of Mrs. James Frazer, with Mrs. Wilbur Cearfoss assisting.

Last Tuesday night the Marley school was entered and an electric plate, a clock, and a blanket were stolen. The thieves entered through a back window, which they had broken. The electric plate was purchased last year by the pupils with money they received from a waste paper drive. It would seem that the articles stolen would be of little value to anyone, but to the school children they meant a lot.

Three Marley persons were injured Friday afternoon when the car in which they were riding was hit by another car at an intersection on route 41, near Kenosha, Wis. The driver of the car, Miss Helen Tilsy, suffered wrist and arm bruises, Miss Caroline Tilsy suffered abrasions on her head and face and body bruises, and Mrs. Henry Tilsy suffered a fractured rib. The fourth passenger Henry Tilsy was uninjured. Their car was badly damaged. The Tilsys were returning home from Milwaukee, where they had visited relatives, when they were hit by a car driven by a 17-year-old girl.

While she was washing clothes last Wednesday morning, Mrs. C. F. Haley seriously injured her left hand when it was caught in the wringer of the washing machine. She was taken to Silver Cross hospital, where twenty-one stitches were taken to close the wound. Mrs. Haley is convalescing nicely in her home. She will be 90 years old next January.

In the afternoon they motored to Lemont, where they were guests in the home of Mrs. Matilda Bodenschatz.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cooper and daughters of Mokena were guests Thursday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Lauffer. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Haley and daughter Barbara of Goodings Grove were entertained Sunday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Gorham.

Dinner guests Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Sass were Mrs. Lottie Clark of Aurora, Mr. and Mrs. George Peterson, Wayne Peterson of Chicago, Dan Sass, and Ralph Tilsy.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rowlett announce the marriage of their daughter,

Anna Mary Washam, to Paul Lester Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Alexander. The wedding was held Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Methodist church. The candlelight, sing-song ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ralph L. Miller, pastor.

Baskets of mixed gladioli decorated the altar. Mrs. Howard Ayres presided at the organ and played Lohengrin's wedding march as the bride entered with her father, Mrs. F. Carlton Cole sang "Because" and "Until." As the bride party left the church Mrs. Ayres played Mendelssohn's Recessional.

The bride was in a white satin gown, sweetheart neckline, long tight-fitting tapered sleeves, and a full skirt. Her three-quarter length veil was trimmed with wide lace and her arm bouquet of American beauty roses was tied with streamers of ribbons that hung with pieces of fernery. Her only jewelry was a three-strand necklace of pearls.

Her maid of honor, Miss Frances Dell Rose of Joliet, wore an orchid gown fashioned with sweetheart neckline, short puff sleeves, tight-fitting bodice, and full skirt. The serving tables were covered with lace cloths, and centered with a beautiful large two-tiered wedding cake that was served by the groom's niece, Merna Mae Crawford, of Manhattan. The ladies of the Woman's society of the church did the serving.

TINLEY PARK

Mrs. John Schultdt of Tinley Park celebrated her 85th birthday Wednesday, October 8, with a party. There were 50 guests. Games were played and a lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGowan are new residents of Tinley Park. They live at 167th and Forest avenue.

Lawrence Smith, of the Cook county inspection bureau, presented a talk on fire prevention at the Tinley Park school auditorium last Friday evening. Mr. Smith demonstrated how a careless person can cause a forest fire; and explained how many things that can happen to children who play with fire, and pointed out that a great share of our lumber shortage can be blamed on forest fires and careless people.

Following Mr. Smith's talk, a movie was shown on our national forests, illustrating how trees are cared for, how cutting time is determined, and how old trees are replaced.

Edward Jensen then showed colored slides of Japan.

Arthur Brandau this week is shipping half a dozen carloads of sugar beets to a sugar company at St. Louis, Mich.

Mr. Brandau has been raising sugar beets for the last four years, but he

SETTLER'S STONE

WEeping ANGEL

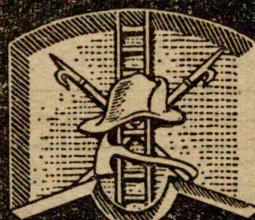

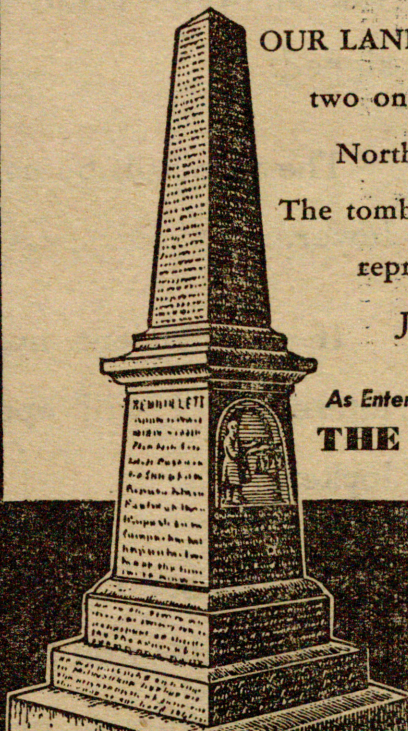

We have been browsing again in old Northern Illinois' cemeteries. Again we have collected epitaphs and unusual stone carvings. And we have collected stories: there is the story of a family memorial on which the husband expresses his sentiments regarding each of his three wives; there is the story of why two monuments were erected to the memory of one man; there are the stories of how two men buried a few hundred feet apart met their deaths by gunfire; and there are dark tales of poisonings. This

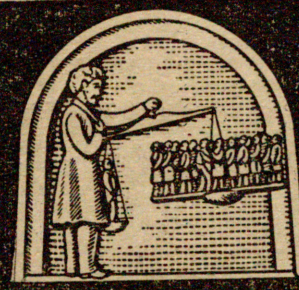

OUR LANDMARKS is the second of two on old burying grounds of Northern Illinois.

My place has only young trees except lime tree and never broke a limb, but all the limes were on the ground. It uprooted a coconut tree, boganvillas that went up to the roof of port-cochere and hibiscus bushes, but all were replanted.

Neighbor on left lost a large coconut palm and papaya tree, whipped leaves off poinsettias on south side, vines on north, and awning across west porch. When they come home from the north, the place won't look the same.

There are hundreds of coconut trees down, all over; just don't seem possible. About 5 p. m., when hurricane ended, we drove down to the beach, but sand had blown in a block. Tried to walk, but wind still blowing and could not endure the sand blowing on our face. Drove on to one of the canals to see a relative's winter home and had to walk part way as two trees were over the road. Rain had beat in doors and windows.

Saw 13 pine trees blown over with roots and dirt still on; three were standing. Friday the tops were cut off and trees put back in place.

No lives were lost and few minor injuries, citrus crop loss is heavy, and

HERE IS A 4-UNIT DIESEL FREIGHT LOCOMOTIVE NOW OPERATED BY 2 MEN (1 ENGINEER AND 1 FIREMAN)

2 BRAKEMEN AND 1 CONDUCTOR COMPLETE THE CREW OF THIS TRAIN (One brakeman usually rides in the locomotive in freight service)

—BUT THE UNION LEADERS WANT 15 EXTRA "SITTERS" ON THIS TRAIN ... 3 ENGINEERS, 3 FIREMEN, 6 BRAKEMEN AND 3 CONDUCTORS ... TO GO ALONG FOR THE RIDE AT FULL PAY!

It's to your interest to know about this proposed feather-bedding!

For sheer feather-bedding, this mock work proposal takes the cake. But it is only one of 44 "rules" demands filed by the leaders of the operating unions. If all these demands were granted, they would cost the railroads an added BILLION DOLLARS A YEAR.

Increased Wages, Too

On top of these "rules" changes, the leaders of the operating unions have filed an additional demand for a wage increase of over 30 per cent. If granted, this would be an added cost to the railroads of $400,000,000 a year.

$468,000,000 To Non-Operating Employees

In addition to this, an Arbitration Board has just granted a wage increase of 15½ cents an hour to the million employees represented by the 17 non-operating unions. This will cost the railroads $468,000,000 a year.

Where Will The Money Come From?

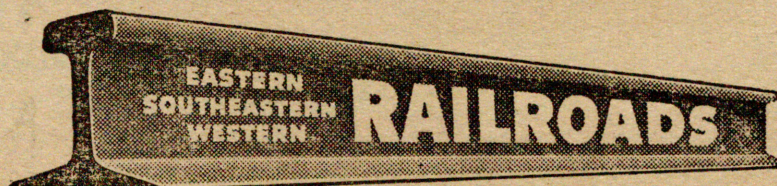

Where will all the money come from to pay these increases? They total several times as much as the railroads made in 1946 or will make in 1947.

In July, the railroads filed an application for increased freight rates to close the gap which then existed between wage and material costs, and railroad revenues. Since then it has been necessary, because of further increases in wages and material costs, to supplement that petition and to ask for an additional freight rate increase. No other course is open.

Railroads Do Not Run For Employees Alone

Railroads are operated for the benefit of not one, but several groups—shippers, passengers, employees, stockholders, and the general public. The interest of all must be served—and that cannot be done unless the railroads can operate efficiently and economically, and unless they are allowed to earn sufficient revenue to provide the kind of transportation service this country MUST HAVE.

4 BIG DAYS

SCRIPTURE: Hebrews 11-13; Genesis 12:1-9.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Romans 5:1-8.

Creative Power of Faith

Lesson for October 19, 1947

THIS lesson takes us to the Westminster Abbey of the Bible—Hebrews, eleventh through the thirteenth chapters—to meditate for a season upon the valiant souls in the long ago who obtained a good report as they stood at the passage of destiny and sounded the trumpets of triumph, even the trumpets of faith.

Dr. Newton

The reader will be richly rewarded to stop right here and open his or her Bible and read these three chapters. Your attention will be riveted to the word, faith.

"Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. For by it the elders obtained a good report. Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of 'things which do appear.'" Hebrews 11:1-3.

A Journey to a New Land

I WANT the boys and girls to look at the passage which describes how Abraham, "when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went."

How could Abraham leave his pleasant situation in Ur? Through faith in God, and that alone. A memory verse is here suggested: "I will trust, and will not be afraid," Isaiah 12:2. Abraham might well have been afraid of unknown enemies, of disease, of poverty. Men do become afraid of these things, unless their faith is in God. But Abraham believed in God—had faith in God. And he went forth, holding the hand of God.

There is creative power in such a faith. Abraham discovered that every step he took was accompanied by God. He built altars. He talked with God, and God talked with him. Such will be the experience of every boy and girl who stakes his or her all upon implicit faith in God.

What Faith Can Do

INTERMEDIATES are considering what they will do with their lives. It is the vitally important period when they are wistfully considering a life career. This lesson would seem to clearly indicate that God has a purpose and plan for each life. He will reveal that plan to those who trust him for guidance. Faith in God at this point is absolutely essential if we are to live victoriously.

Read again the eleventh chapter of Hebrews and see how these heroes of faith in the long ago cast themselves wholly into the will of God for their lives. We can have no doubt about their ultimate success.

Parents and teachers are here reminded of their solemn responsibility in pointing intermediate boys and girls to the truth of Sunday's lesson. Life is too valuable, too fleeting, to be frittered away in purposeless drifting.

Faith is the bright shaft of God's presence and power to guide young people into his will. It is the unfailing light to direct their steps daily. It is the creative power to sustain them each step of the way.

This Power at Work

TAKE any one of the characters portrayed in these three chapters of Hebrews and see how faith in God produced men and women who changed the course of history.

Young people are interested in biography. I would commend to you the lives of the great men and women of modern times, who lived in the creative power of faith in God.

John Wesley, for example. There was a man whose life, when strangely warmed by the spirit of God, lifted England from the depths of secularism and set her feet once more on the highway of worthy achievement.

Martha Berry is another splendid example. Miss Berry devoted her life to God's will and purpose to open doors of opportunity to the underprivileged boys and girls of the southern mountain areas. Today, at Mt. Berry, stands a school with the largest campus in the world—a school which reveals what one life can accomplish when that life is built by the creative power of faith in the Living God.

"Take my life and let it be,
Consecrated, Lord, to Thee."

(Copyright by the International Council of Religious Education on behalf of 40 Protestant denominations. Released by WNU)

THE toughest job in sport isn't sinking a six-foot putt in a pinch—or emerging from a heel print in the sand. It isn't throwing a 40-yard pass—or pitching to a clutch hitter with the bases full. It isn't umpiring a baseball game.

If you care to hear the correct answer it is working as a football official. The baseball umpire has a setup in comparison. Hurry-up Yost of Michigan told me once that he doubted that any play was ever run off in football that was completely minus some form of penalty—off side, starting too quickly, holding, illegal interference, pass interference, illegal use of hands or other infractions.

Grantland Rice

Here you have 22 keen, active, overreager young men scattered over a good part of the field in a game that is packed with penalties. No four sets of eyes can follow every infraction, especially on the part of those who know how, when and where to slide by a rule.

I'd like to say here that no set of officials work harder, train harder or try harder than 90 per cent of all football officials. They are honest, intelligent, well-selected, and they usually take a deep pride in their work.

But they are up against an impossible job. Having worked five years as a football official in the South, before groping later for the older age of hazy reason, I have found it somewhat difficult to ride officials who have impossible jobs to handle.

There is holding, of one sort or another, on almost every play. Ask some of the players in the line—who have been jerked off balance by a quick hand, a movement that took less than a split second.

Or this matter of pass interference in the rush and jump for the ball—or the split second start of the backs—or the smart ones who know how to time and beat off side by half a stride.

It isn't too easy to say which penalties affect a play—and which don't. But this is where the smarter officials come in—where in other years, Ed and Tom Thorpe were supreme—two of the best football ever has known.

Certainly too much whistle and horn blowing can wreck any game, coming from too many over-conscientious callers, who now and then have the idea they are the afternoon's main attractions. But this doesn't happen often.

An official with sound, sane judgment in handling a game, where one close decision can make or break either team, is football's major asset. But don't let anyone tell you it isn't a tough assignment—the toughest one I know in sport.

The horn is certainly no instrument of merriment or melody.

All Bowled Over

Old King Cole now has more bowls than he ever dreamed about as he called for his Fiddlers Three and proceeded to get pie-eyed. But the two big money bowls are the Rose and the Sugar, where the two capacities are 93,000 and 73,000 at $4 a crack.

Not a bad financial goal for those lucky enough to crowd into the final picture, although this cash is scattered around as far as the Rose Bowl is concerned. Here, no one makes any big killing. Which is the way it should be. College football still has a long way to go in getting away from too much finance.

New Golf Champion

More than a few followers of the ancient and well-trapped green want to know more about Skee Riegel, the new amateur golf champion of the U. S.

Skee is much better known in the Far West than he is throughout the rest of our bunkered domain.

The impression seems to be that some rank outsider has taken over the amateur throne of golf. This idea is strictly incorrect. Only a fine golfer could have won over the Pebble Beach test, one of the toughest in golf. What sort of a golfer and what brand of a fellow is the new champion—meaning Mr. Riegel?

We took this problem to Al Ciuci, one of the best golf instructors in the country, now in charge at Lakeville, Long Island.

"I can tell you this," Ciuci told me. "A worthy champion and a fine fellow now wears the crown. Craig Wood and I worked with Skee in 1941, when he had been playing golf only three years. He was then in the high 70s. He had come along in a hurry because he wanted to learn, and he was willing to practice all day.

"Here's an odd angle on Skee. They call Frank Stranahan 'Muscle' Stranahan or 'Mr. Muscle.' But in my opinion Riegel is much stronger than Stranahan. They ought to call Skee, 'Double Muscle.' I've never seen anyone close to his weight, 185 pounds, with such powerful upper and forearms. Skee is what I'd call a power hitter, or a smash hitter.

HURRICANE'S POUNDING FURY TOLD BY MRS. ADELE COOPER

Mrs. Adele Cooper, of Orland Park, now in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., wrote the following letter to Mrs. Margaret M. Semmler, publisher. It is a first-hand description of the horrors of a mighty hurricane.

Well, I have had the thrill of a hurricane, but just do not care for another. Although the wind was 127 miles per hour and pouring rain, the damage was not as severe as past years. Due to radio broadcasting every two hours Tuesday, from the weather bureau at Miami, telling what to do, and structures of buildings are better today.

Four o'clock Tuesday people started to board up the windows and take in anything that might blow away. Those storm shutters sure make the house like a dungeon, especially with no electricity. Was glad when the caretaker removed them.

The lady that owns this house called asking me to stay with her. Glad I didn't, as her apartment is on New River and the water came way across to the second step. My neighbor to the right asked me to come over, which I accepted.

The wind started about 55 miles per hour Tuesday night. Thought I would see how long I wouldn't be afraid, but at 7:30 Wednesday morning the wind gained hurricane force, with gusts up to 100 miles an hour; then I went to the neighbor. The folks were wondering how long I would hold out.

Ft. Lauderdale didn't expect to be the center of the storm. It was Vero Beach, then Palm Beach, but the barometer kept dropping. The last I received, 4:45 a. m., Wednesday, was 29.33, went as low as 28.22 at 1:45 p. m.

There is what is called "center" lull, which occurred about 11:15 a. m. until about 12:20 p. m. People are warned not to go out in the lull, as never know when wind will return. That is when people used to get killed, thinking it was over. After the lull the full hurricane winds of 110 to 127 miles an hour swept through, causing the major destruction. First wind came from northeast and after the lull it swirled from the southeast.

Where I stayed did not have storm shutters and we went from window to window. Off would go a limb, or tree break off or uproot. What the north wind didn't do the south wind did. Mrs. Raddell lost mahogany, maulalucas, rubber, mango trees. Stripped leaves off a nut tree and took center out of a fruit tree. She has worked for eight years to get shade trees and in that short time the yard was naked. Looks like fall. It has been so beautiful around here.

Armstrongs Raise Sheep in Wisconsin

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Armstrong, who moved to Friendship, Wis., last year, have bought a Karakul sheep ranch there and are raising the tight-twisted-fur sheep as a business, according to a letter from Mrs. Armstrong. She is the former Mary Marti of Mokena.

The Armstrongs bought the sheep and ranch from a rancher named Jones, who, Mrs. Armstrong says, operates one of the important ranches in the United States.
